With the Famous Works of Art

Given Away With the

Boston Sunday Globe

The marvellous progress made in color printing has enabled the Boston Sunday Globe, at great expense, to obtain for its readers beautiful copies of famous works of art done in most attractive tints. Every one of these pictures is a gem. Printed on substantial paper, all ready for framing. Something to be proud of. A beautifier of any home. Each picture has for subject something that appeals directly to the heart. Next Sunday's picture is a masterpiece. Its title shows its significance:

"Please Mend My Dolly?"

A little girl takes her doll to a blacksmith's shop and asks the blacksmith to mend it. A lifelike scene: The loveliness of the child, the stalwart forms of the blacksmith and his assistants, the flaming forge and the red-hot horseshoe on the anvil, all painted in vivid colors.

THE HANGING OF PAT DOOLAN

By MARTHA M'GUIRE.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Pat Doolan was the bravest, hand-somest, quickest witted, most reckless bareheaded scamp in Ireland. Every body knew Pat, and every one who knew him loved him. He was always getting into trouble, and his facility for doing so was equalled by his talents for getting out again. His hair was red and curly, his complexion soft and peachy as that of a girl, but he was strong and wiry and not afraid of the devil himself.

Pat was an Irishman and a patriot from the crown of his head to the sole of his foot. He was always getting in the way of the British officials, who wily billy were obliged to stumble over him, and that meant that he was constantly being brought up before a magistrate for some breach of the law. But the magistrates and the bullies all loved him so well that they were always either letting him off openly or conniving at his escape from justice. The trouble is that Pat's escapades were always connected with some movement against British rule, and in this he had a large proportion of the people with him.

But when the rebellion of '47—came on and failed Pat, who had given the government more trouble than any other ten rebels, was tried, found guilty of treason and sentenced to be hanged. There was great lamentation through the country at Pat's fate, and in those parts where he was personally known had the people not just failed at one rebellion they would have started another to save him.

Pat continued to crack his jokes, eat all that was given him—good things came for him in baskets to the jail—and drank the health of his fellow men as he lay in his cell. When a bottle was smuggled in with the rest, as the day approached for his execution, he was gathered around and debated different methods of saving him. Some talked of a rescue, but rescues are seldom successful, especially when those appointed to carry out a sentence are prepared to resist the rescuers. No one could learn whether any of the plans proposed would be undertaken. There were those who looked knowing and those who were full of fight and those whose close tongues—an unusual thing for an Irishman—gave the impression that they were "still waters running deep." But the day for the execution came round, and there was no evidence of any well defined plan to save Pat's life.

Though as many of Pat's friends as wished were permitted to be present at the hanging, there were plenty of officials within call to prevent the possibility of interference with the carrying out of the sentence. Indeed, there were not more than half a dozen of those who loved Pat gathered about the scaffold, and they were there with a cart to remove the body after it had been taken down.

Pat ascended the scaffold with a jaunty step. Eileen McKenna, his sweetheart at the time, had sent him a tremendous flower, which he wore in his buttonhole; his hair had been carefully attended to, though no brush could get the kinks out of it, and he wore a beautiful smile. He approached the rope, examined it, tested it, tried to get the loop over his head. "I can't do it," he said, "and if I could I wouldn't hang with any convenience, for the rope is too short. I demand my rights to be hanged safely, and there's no safety in that gallow at all."

Taking a caddy pipe and some tobacco from his pocket, he rubbed the latter between the palms of his hands, filled his pipe, scratched a match on his leg and began to smoke.

The sheriff called some one to improve the gallow, and Pat smoked and pictured to him in words what an Irishman calling was his. "I forgive ye for what you're going to do to me," said Pat, "but I think you'll be forgiven by our patron saint. I have an idea that the hottest part of purgatory is kept for those who make a livin' by stretchin' necks and choppin' off heads. As for me, don't mention it. I wouldn't grudge you the pay you'll get for makin' me a corpse for a hundred years of life."

The sheriff was much affected by this address and said he'd rather Pat would hang him than he hang Pat. "How long must I be hangin'?" asked Pat.

"The law says an hour,"

"Well, then, get at it. It's an hour before supper. I'll be too early for it in this world, and I don't want to be too late for it in the other."

As the rope was adjusted Pat's friends crowded up on to the scaffold to bid him goodby. When he was swung off he fell against one of them—purposely in the way—which somewhat broke the fall. When it was over the sheriff turned his back, and while doing so Pat's friends somewhat relieved the strain on his neck by holding him up by the waistband. But this they were only enabled to do when the sheriff was not looking.

At the end of an hour timed by set back watches the body was let down, put in a coffin and rife over a rough road in a cart. This was intended to bring Pat to his senses. And it did. He sat up in his coffin and cried at the top of his voice:

"Hurrah for old Ireland!"

That night Pat's wake occurred, with Pat for chief mourner.

URGE TARIFF COMMISSION.

Certain Republicans in Congress Believe Action Would Be Good Politics.

Washington, April 9.—Inspired by the attitude of the Indiana Republican convention towards the tariff law, and Representative Fox's success in the recent Massachusetts congressional election, the Republican advocates of a tariff commission are determined to press their cause before the adjournment of the present session of Congress. They declare that the Payne-Aldrich bill is so manifestly failing to meet the demands of the country that the Republicans must do something to place themselves on a better basis, and contending that all the arguments are favorable to a commission, they are promising the only possible scientific revision of the tariff, will take the first favorable opportunity to press for action.

SUGAR TRUST IN CONTEMPT.

Fined $500 for Not Producing Its Books for Federal Grand Jury.

New York, April 9.—Judge Lacombe of the United States circuit court yesterday adjudged the American Sugar Refining company in contempt of court and fined the corporation $500. The contempt consisted in the failure to respond to the subpoena calling for the production of two books of account before the federal grand jury Thursday. The company based its refusal to respond to the subpoena on the ground that there were legal and constitutional questions involved, and that it proposed to appeal from the order of the court directing the submission of the books.

CONFESSES $30,000 THEFT.

Howlett, Arrested in Baltimore, Admits Stealing Bugher Jewels.

Baltimore, Md., April 9.—Clarence Howlett, who, on March 27, stole diamonds and other jewelry, valued at $30,000, from Mrs. Frederick Bugher, wife of the deputy police commissioner of New York, while she was visiting in Washington, was arrested here Thursday while attempting to sell one of the stolen gems. He made a confession to police officials. About $15,000 worth of diamonds were found on him.

ALL RUMORS ARE DENIED

Knox and McVeagh Don't Intend to Leave Cabinet

CABINET IS NOT FAILING

Both Gentlemen Say They Are Not Considering Resigning Their Offices—No Indications of Changes in Washington.

Washington, April 9.—"I have no intention of retiring from President Taft's cabinet," declared Secretary McVeagh yesterday.

"I do not know the source of the rumors which are being circulated through the press, but they are entirely without foundation."

Flat denials were made in all official directions yesterday of another crop of cabinet resignation rumors, this time dealing with Secretary Knox and Secretary McVeagh.

President Taft said he knew nothing of contemplated resignations by these or other cabinet officials and shortly after this direct statement, Secretaries Knox and McVeagh both made denials, the former verbally but strongly, on his way into the executive office to attend the regular cabinet meeting and the latter both formally and informally.

Mr. McVeagh not only gave out a written statement, but personally declared that he had no intention of resigning now or in the near future, so far as he could see.

TO TAKE UP COLLIER'S CHARGE.

Bar Association of Seattle to Investigate Bellinger's Conduct.

Seattle, April 9.—A special meeting of the Seattle bar association has been called for next week, to take action on the charges of unprofessional conduct made against Richard A. Bellinger, a member of the association, by Collier's Weekly. A committee investigated the charges six years ago and exonerated Mr. Bellinger.

ANOTHER CRITICISM.

Paris Papers Attack Roosevelt for Receiving Free Masons.

Paris, April 9.—Mr. Roosevelt's reception of Free Masons in Rome has called forth criticism from a section of the royalist and Catholic press. The Gaulois says that the incident justifies the precautions adopted by the Vatican, for it indicates that Mr. Roosevelt probably would have received the Masons after his audience with the pope, had such an audience taken place. "passing from the Vatican to the Masonic chiefs with the approval of the pontifical authority," the Gaulois accuses Mr. Roosevelt of working the vengeance of a disappointed tourist and punishing "an ungrateful papacy by bowing down before the idol of Masonry." The paper, in addition to a long and violently worded editorial attack, has also published a long article in which the claim is made that the government has adopted extraordinary precautions to prevent Mr. Roosevelt making "breaks" similar to those which he made in Rome.

WILL NOT FIGHT.

Peru and Ecuador Hardly Likely to Clash, Thinkers Williams.

London, April 9.—Henry Williams, the confidential agent for the government of Ecuador, who is now in London, received yesterday the following cablegram from President Alfaro of Ecuador:

"The turbulent manifestations at Quito and Lima in no manner interpret the sentiment of the majority in the two countries nor the pacific intentions of the respective governments. The differences have been submitted for diplomatic action, which is directed to avoid war. Negotiations have been initiated for a direct settlement through mediation by the United States government. The commissioners will meet in Washington. (Signed) Eloy Alfaro."

Mr. Williams thinks that it may be confidently assumed that there is not the least probability of Ecuador and Peru going to war over their boundary dispute.

COUNTERFEIT PLANT FOUND.

The Police of New Haven, Conn., Make Important Arrest.

New Haven, Conn., April 9.—Following the arrest here of George M. Hall, alias Alford, a search of his rooms at 378 Water street disclosed one of the most complete counterfeit plants ever found in the city. There were mounds and dies of excellent workmanship for ten cent pieces and quarters and a quantity of sheet silver and plates for one cent and five-dollar bills, and silk threads, similar to those used by the government. The city has been flooded with counterfeit dimes and quarters lately and the police are searching for the passers of the coins. Other arrests are expected to follow soon.

Worms

Thousands of children and adults have worms, but are too proud to tell. The symptoms are: Irritability, variable appetite; foul, offensive breath; head and full lips; occasional griping and pains about the navel; eyes heavy and full; itching of the nose; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; starting during sleep; slow fever; and other signs.

TRUE'S ELIXIR

Is the best worm remedy made. It has been in use since 1851, is perfectly vegetable, harmless and effective. Where no worms are present it cures the bowels, corrects the condition of the stomach and bowels. A positive cure for Colic, Indigestion and Biliousness, and a valuable remedy in all the common complaints of children. Try it. Ask your druggist for it.

BEDRIDDEN WITH ECZEMA SIX WEEKS

Itching, Burning Eruption from Head to Foot—Doctor Gave Her Up Entirely—First Application of Cuticura Brought Relief and Sleep.

CUTICURA REMEDIES EFFECT PERFECT CURE

"Four years ago I suffered severely with a terrible eczema, being a mass of sores from head to foot and for six weeks confined to my bed. During that time I suffered continual torture from itching and burning. After being given up by my doctor I was advised to try the Cuticura Remedies. After the first bath with Cuticura Soap and application of Cuticura Ointment I enjoyed the first good sleep during my illness. I also used Cuticura Resolvent and the treatment was continued for about three weeks. At the end of that time I was able to be about the house, entirely cured, and have felt no ill effects since. I would advise any person suffering from any form of skin trouble to try the Cuticura Remedies as I know what they did for me. Mrs. Edward Nennine, 1113 Salina St., Watertown, N. Y., April 11, 1909."

Cuticura Soap
Soothing, Cooling, Refreshing for Tender Skins.

Because of its delicate, emollient, sensitive, antiseptic properties derived from Cuticura, united with the power of saponaceous ingredients and most refreshing of flower odors, Cuticura Soap is unrivaled for cleansing, preserving and purifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands, for dispelling itching, irritation and inflammation and preventing clogging of the pores, the cause of many distressing facial eruptions. All who delight in a clear skin, soft, white hands, a clean, wholesome scalp and lustrous hair, will find that Cuticura Soap realizes every expectation.

Cuticura Soap only Cuticura Ointment (also Cuticura Resolvent) is, or is in the form of a ointment, and is not a cream or soap. It is not a cosmetic. It is a medicine. It is a cure for all skin diseases. It is a cure for all skin diseases. It is a cure for all skin diseases.

WELL KNOWN LAWYER.

Thomas H. McLeod of Middlebury Died Yesterday.

Middlebury, April 9.—Thomas H. McLeod, a prominent lawyer of this town, died at his home here yesterday of old age and an attack of grip, from which he had been suffering for some time. He was born in Elizabeth, N. Y., in 1823, and prepared for Middlebury college, which he entered, and was graduated in 1844, teaching school for two years immediately following his graduation. He then studied law with Hon. Horace Seymour and in 1852 was admitted to the bar. From 1874 to 1878 he was registrar of probate for Addison county and was a master in chancery during his entire practice of law. He was a justice of the peace for 25 years.

In 1863 he was a member of the United States civil commission at Memphis, Tenn., and in 1864 he was enrolled with Company E, second regiment of the Tennessee militia. He was a fine mathematician and wrote several treatises on various mathematical subjects. In 1866 he married Miss Martha Holcomb, who died several years ago.

The funeral will be held at the Episcopal church in this town on Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

MONEY FOR VERMONT SCHOOL.

Good Sum Promised to Troy Conference Academy.

Saratoga, N. Y., April 9.—At a mass meeting of the students and alumni of the Troy Conference academy at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., held last night in connection with the sessions of the Troy Methodist conference, now in progress here, gifts to the institution totaling $75,000 were announced, conditional upon the fund being increased to $80,000. Dr. J. H. Coleman of Albany, financial representative of the academy, expressed the opinion that the entire amount would be raised. State Senator Edgar T. Brackett, a member of the board of trustees, presided at the meeting.

Education Versus Tuberculosis.

"The latest and the most helpful note sounded in the civilized world's campaign against the white plague, is the education of American school-children to avoid tuberculosis," asserts the Woman's Home Companion for April.

"The campaign itself may be described as a dual movement. On the one hand, are arrayed notification, registration and segregation of those tainted with tuberculosis; and on the other, education and prevention for the untaught. The greatest of these is the education of the rising generation, who, through this means, may live to see tuberculosis stamped out of all civilized countries."

"So, while municipal governments and private charities are wading out cases which have spread the disease, supplying outdoor sanatoria for the curable and refuges for the incurable, half a dozen powerful agencies are pushing the sane and sensible campaign of education among school-children, with a view to eliminating the disease entirely in the generations to come."

"The one preventive of tuberculosis is right living in the schools. Twenty million children attend school in the United States. Twenty million children are well worth saving physically as well as mentally. And if twenty million children do not have tuberculosis, the disease will not exist for the next generation."

"The most active agencies at work in large cities for the salvation of the children are: the board of health, the public schools, the athletic league co-operation with the board of education, the playground associates and private or organized charities like the Association for the Control and Prevention of Tuberculosis. When these four agencies work in harmony results are immediate, electric."

GRAND TRUNK BILL PASSED

Both Houses of Rhode Island Legislature Have Now Acted

FAVORABLY ON CHARTER

Act Incorporating Southern New England Railroad Passed at Providence, The Senate Vote Was Unanimous.

Providence, R. I., April 9.—By a unanimous vote, the Senate yesterday passed the act incorporating the Southern New England Railroad company, an auxiliary branch of the Grand Trunk Railway company.

If signed by Governor Pothier, the bill, which was passed unanimously by the House Thursday, will give Rhode Island connection with the sea.

The bill passed yesterday was a substitute for the original charter act, drafted by the House committee on incorporations last Tuesday and favorably passed by the House Thursday.

This substitute fixes more definitely the location of the proposed line than did the original bill, adding that the line in Rhode Island, instead of going at a definite point on the state line between Massachusetts and Rhode Island, should begin where the proposed Massachusetts section of the new road cuts the state line. It also made mandatory that the line entering Providence shall run into or through the cities of Woonsocket, Pawtucket and Providence.

The bill prohibits the establishing of grade crossings in any city or across any state highway, but it does permit the establishment of grade crossings in towns with the consent of the towns council.

Although the New Haven road at first opposed the charter, it later withdrew its opposition.

A Perfume Garden.

"A very little space will suffice to raise the sweetest of the perfume plants—this term being understood to mean those plants which in their flower, branch or root furnish a 'permanent' fragrance, in a form immediately available for use," says Grace Tabor in Woman's Companion for April.

"Lavender comes at once to every one's mind in this connection, the famed sweet lavender of ancient linen room and press being probably the most widely known of all these plants, familiar even to those who have little idea how it grows."

"The seed is listed, but it is better to buy the plant already started, for seedlings do not run true to variety. The lavender vera is the true sweet lavender; give it an open, light, rather dry soil and full sunlight, and free air."

"It is shrubby and grows from two to three feet high; its blossoms come in July and August, and are exquisitely fragrant. Cut the flower stalks with plenty of the surrounding green—the fragrance is in green corolla and even in leaf and branch—in clear weather, in early flower, and early in the morning before the dew is off the plant, and hang immediately to dry."

Is Baseball the "Great American Game?"

Hugh S. Fullerton, in his excellent baseball article in the April American Magazine, writes:

"Up to a few years ago March 17th was a great day with the training camps of all major league clubs, for on that day the Irish and Dutch met in the fiercest struggle of the season. But baseball has become too cosmopolitan. No longer on the Harp and Carpe monopolize the 'great American game,' and the St. Patrick's day contest has been generally abandoned because the Irish were forced to line up like this: Demetrius, I. F.; Mike, C. F.; Ole, ss.; Pierre, 3b.; Kevski, 1b.; Kicking Mule, 2b.; Israel, r. f.; Colorado Madras, c.; MacGregor, p."

DISCRIMINATION WINS !!!

In every walk in life discrimination between the true and the false wins and enjoys success. In questions of form, of style and of values, whether financial, commercial or medicinal, the judgement of the men and women who select and appreciate and utilize the true and genuine product, proves most profitable and most satisfactory to themselves and to all who follow them.

Therefore, in connection with so important a subject as the physical well-being of the people, the most eminent physicians insist on full information as to the wholesome nature and truly beneficial character of the component parts of the remedies used and prescribed by them, and the wise manufacturer not only supplies them with the knowledge desired, but also combines for them in proper proportions the very substances most approved by them and omits every objectionable substance. The world-wide acceptance of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna by physicians and the well-informed of the world, as the best of family laxatives, is due to the universal satisfaction which it has given for more than a quarter of a century and also to the fact that it is a remedy of known quality and known component parts and to the further fact that the California Fig Syrup Co. presents it to the world simply as the ideal strengthening personal laxative to cleanse and sweeten the system gently, yet effectually, and to dispel colds and headaches and to assist in overcoming constipation. To get its beneficial effects—always buy the original and genuine, for sale by all leading druggists. The full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is always plainly printed on the front of every package.

Mrs. E. C. Everly.

"I FEEL well, never felt better; thanks for your attention and Perna."

"I will be glad to do all I can in the way of advancing the sale of your valuable medicine."

"I do think Perna the best medicine I have tried at any time."

"Since I began taking Perna we have never been without it."

"I really believe that every woman in the world ought to have Perna on hand all the time; for if she gets tired, Perna refreshes her; if she gets nervous, it soothes her; if she gets irritable, it cheers and invigorates."

"It is a constant friend to the nursing mother, both for herself and for her child, and finally when old age comes on, no medicine on earth is of greater efficacy to the woman."

"Surely, Perna is the woman's friend."—Mrs. E. C. Everly, 2103 Franklin St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Stronger Than for Years.

Mrs. Caroline Sandheimer, Clark, Louisiana, writes:

"I am feeling quite well now. I can work again and am stronger than I have been for years, and I do believe that Perna saved my life. I will advise all I can to take your medicine."
